UM STUDENTS TO HEAR
CONSUMER EXPERT FRIDAY

MISSOULA---

Interested University of Montana students will have a chance to visit with Walker Sandbach of Mount Vernon, N.Y., Friday afternoon in conjunction with the Western Montana Consumer Education Conference on Saturday.

Sandbach, executive director of Consumers Union and publisher of Consumer Reports, will keynote the conference at 9:45 a.m. Saturday when he discusses "Wanted: Active, Alert Consumers" in the University Center (UC) Five Valleys Room.

He is slated to speak on "Current Consumer Ferment" with UM students at 1 p.m. Friday (March 7) in UC room 361. Sandbach will answer students' questions concerning the topic.

Saturday's conference begins with registration at 9:15 a.m. in the UC Five Valleys Room and ends following an evaluation of the day's topics at 3 p.m.

The conference, which is open to all interested persons, is cosponsored by the Food and Drug Administration, the UM Department of Home Economics and the Missoula Chamber of Commerce.

Senior citizens age 65 and over may obtain free transportation to and from the University campus Saturday for the conference by phoning the UM home economics department, 243-4841.

Mrs. Billie Anne Swartz of Lolo, a UM home economics instructor, is conference coordinator.

Speakers representing government agencies, the UM and several local businesses will participate in the conference.
